You must specify your contribution and acknowledge the contributions of others by name. This acknowledgment must take the form of a separate paragraph just below the title of the chapter.
14.	End of chapter II and III	To prevent the ETD from appearing to be an anthology of separate studies, chapters should be clearly linked by providing a “bridge” (the last paragraph of the chapter) that explains the relationship between the experiments/arguments in that chapter and those of the chapter to follow. The heading “Bridge” can be used but is not required.
